DELANEY, ANDREW (1899-1902)

Born August 09, 1899 in Dublin South to Andrew Delany and Catherine O'Brien. Parents living in 6 Fitzgerald's Cottages, Brown Street, Arran Quay in St Catherine's Parish at the time. Per family verbal history was a bit mentally off [via Katie Rappold]. Tracey Walsh relayed a story from Ellen Delaney (1897-1983) that Andrew Delaney (1864-1904), his father, used to come home with a few pints in him and play baby toss. Apparently, he dropped baby Andrw - hard. The drop was viewed as the cause of baby Andrew's slow development. Author finds sadness in this as he too has been guilty of Guinness inspired baby toss. <sadface/>. Andrew is present in the 1901 Irish census at 38 Chamber Street, about 250 yards from his birth location. He died at the age of 3, living at 38 Chamber Street. The record lists the cause of death as heart failure. He is buried in Glasnevin Cemetery in grave B-J-21 ½ (a shared grave), the same cemetery as his father.

DELANEY, ELIZA (1867-?)

Born April 29 1867 at 10 Brabazon Place, Merchants Quay, Dublin to Francis Delaney and Teresa Giles. Parish of St Nicholas (Without). Sister to Andrew Delany (1864).

DELANEY, FRANCIS

Father of Teresa Delaney 1871. 1911 July 16 death, Widowed, slater, Teresa Delany 1871, his daughter, present. Both residents at 19 Lauderdale Terrace. GGG-Grandfather of document author J.Healy.

O'BRIEN, CATHERINE (-)

Mother of Theresa Schmidt, nee Delaney. GG-Grandfather of document author J. Healy.

Married April 19 1896 to Catherin O'Brien. Marriage #165 registered 25 Aril 1896. Andrew Delaney (widower) of 30 Coombe and Catherine Obrien (spinster) of 1 Pimlico Square, parents Frances Delaney (laborer) and Michael Obrien (laborer). Meath Street Catholic church by John Kelly. Witness: Samuel Mooney and Margeret Hughes.

O'BRIEN, MICHAEL (-)

Father of Catherine O'Brien. Mentioned in 1896 church record of Catherine's marriage. GGG-Grandfather of document author J.Healy.

THE FRENCH CONNECTION

Anecdotal story. My father JJ Healy (1941) relayed an interesting tale his grandmother had told me. Apparently she had heard there was French in her family tree. Given the initial population of the weaver area of Dublin (Merchants Quay) by immigrant Huguenots perhaps that is the French connection. Ref – "The Liberties" - https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Liberties,_Dublin .

Ancestry-ToDo: I recall French Delanys from some online research. Dig this back out

Ancestry-ToDo: Figure out a MTDNA line to the Delaney's and get them tested. It would go to O'Brien instead of Delany however. Worth the effort.

TUBERCULOSIS

Also known at the time and noted on death certificates as "psthisis" or "consumption" (<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Phthisis>) took a terrible toll on the Delany clan. TB caused the death of Andrew Delany in 1904, leading to his family disintegrating and going to the Irish workhouses, as well as a significant number of other Delany relatives.

"The other major killer in Dublin (JEH: the first was infant mortality) was tuberculosis. A report published in 1912 claimed that the death-rate from tuberculosis was 50 per cent higher in Ireland than in Scotland and England. The report added that in Dublin "the vast majority of deaths (from tuberculosis) occurred among the poorer classes, especially in the families occupying single-room dwellings." <http://spartacus-educational.com/ITdublin.htm>

I can imagine the nightmare that crept through my ancestors as TB stalked them over the years. A quote from <http://skehana.galwaycommunityheritage.org/content/topics/health-issues/tb-ireland-tuberculosis> best sums it up.

"Survivors can still recall the silent terror. A child develops the disease, then a brother contracts it, and his friend a few doors down is next. In Dublin alone, it killed more than 10,000 people a year, more than half of them children. The highly infectious tuberculous bacillus thrived in the crowded tenements of inner city Dublin and in the poorly ventilated, thatched cottages in the country."

The following persons in the Delany clan died of TB:

- Francis Delany (1888-1901) – died at 38 Chamber, age 12
- Andrew Delaney (1864-1904) – died at 38 Chamber, age 44

HEALY

The Healy tree is concerned with the Healy ancestors of James Joseph Healy, beginning with his father Joseph Anthony Healy. Joseph's father, Dennis Healy, was an Irishman who emigrated from Kilgarvan, County Kerry, Ireland in the early 1900s. The Healy family still is resident in Kilgarvan, and are directly related (and DNA proofed) to the famous Healy-Rae politician family. There is a Healy-Rae pub in Ireland owned by the 4th/5th cousins of the author of this document. The Healy-Raes are said to have come to Kilgarvan from Donoughmore in County Cork. By legend a Healy killed a tax collector and then fled across the mountains. Given the origins in Donoughmore, the Healy crest is not the common three boars, but actually three stags. Contact with Healy extended cousins are common. Many connections have been made via DNA – see the Healy DNA section in this document.

HEALY, DENIS JOSEPH (1884-ABT 1962)

Key figure in the author's family history as this is his great-grandfather. Denis is the Healy who emigrated and was the core of the Bronx/Bethpage Healy line. Accordingly, expanded details and stories as know are below.

1884 July 4 Born July 4, 1884 in Kilgarvan, County Kerry, Ireland to Daniel "DanDan" Healy and Mary Sullivan McCann. Birth record excerpt from IrishGenealogy.ie below. Date of birth given on civil registration as 14 July 1884.

Commentary

- Dad (JJ) said he sounded like big bearded cop in the TV show "copper".
- When asked what they farmed in Ireland, he said, "Rocks and swamp".
- Had cousins in Delaware, per Jeannie Pollock
- Passed away watching TV with Jeannie as a young girl sleeping in his lap. He was babysitting. Jeannie's parents came home and he was gone with her asleep. Good way to go.

HEALY DNA MATCHES

HEALY, JOSEPH EDWARD (1965-)

Ancestry.com – 33% Ireland, FTDNA.com – 52% British Isles, Haplogroup – I-P37 matching I-M26 and even more specifically I-PF6947

Dialogs with some experts on DNA led to the placing of us into the I-M26 and I-PF6947 Haplogroups. By their records, all the known members of I-PF6947 have paternal ancestry from Ireland, and they belong to three clusters which can almost each be considered a single, old, family, but with more than one surname.

- 1) Cullen, Know, Carberry and McCarbery
- 2) Healy, Haley, O'Donoghue and Spain
- 3) Crowley, Kenneff, and a different Carberry. And probably an Icelandic man named Skagfield is part of this cluster also.

My Healy chain is definitely in the second group. To see other I2A1 (i-pf6947) relations go to <https://www.familytreedna.com/public/I2aHapGroup/default.aspx?vgroup=I2aHapGroup&vgroup=I2aHapGroup§ion=ycolored> .

Autosomal matches – “cousins” – directly lineage is ascertained by perusing family trees and hoping for a match

- Bandito2007 on Ancestry – closed tree so you can't view – pinged me re Maytor Healy. When I asked to see his tree he went dark. No contact since....
- on Ancestry – Resarching Maytor Healy chain (<http://trees.ancestry.com/tree/52555548/person/13389750765>) . Match presumably on Maytor Healy chain - Marjorie Healy of Utah (1903-1969) married John Samuel Sabin. Ogden, Utah Marilyn_sabin Healys.
- Patrick Healy IV – patrickhealy1@..... I-P37 Haplogroup – Paternal links to Mayter Healy, b 1817 Kenmare, County Kerry
- John Maurice Sullivan aka John McCann Sullivan of Tallahassee, FL – In the “McCann Sullivan” forefather line for the “Healy-Rae” clan, but can't quite pin down where we intersect. Family originated from Kilgarvan, Kerry County and Mangerton Mountain, Kerry

Y-DNA – passed along the male lines, father to son. If your last name matches a Y-DNA hit, it should be good. Also watch out for “neighbor syndrome”.....

- Denis Healy – most distant ancestor is Jeremiah Healy b 1851 – no tree available but does not look like his relatives ever emigrated to the USA. Reached out to him and waiting.

- Patrick Healy IV – Maytor Healy line, b 1817 County Kerry. Same Patrick Healy from “autosomal” matches. I-P37 with terminal SNP of P37.
- Thomas Harold Healy – most distance ancestor is Jeremiah Healy, b 1807 in Kilgarvan, County Kerry, Ireland. Lived in Cork as well and had children there. d. 1897 in Castletown, Ireland.
